
Claims

What is claimed is:

1. A device to notify of messages to a wireless communication device by amplification of the notification signal of the communication device, comprising of a audio signal, visual signal, or a display screen, comprising:

an alerting device;

a microphone to capture the audio notification signal of the communication device and also the voice of the user;

a speaker for producing an alerting sound or message from the communication device;

a light to indicate a message is captured by the communication device;

the invention will attach to the communication device by means of plug, pin or wire, contact connection, optical connection or low-power signal connection or other methods or a combination of any methods;

the volume and frequency of the audio signal produced by the invention may be adjustable;

the attachment system between the communication device and the invention can be unique to each brand and/or model of communication device;

a display.

2. A power source to charge the internal battery of the communication device or power the communication device or invention an interface to which the communication device is attached, comprising:

a light to indicate attachment of the communication device to the alerting device;

a light to indicate the invention has power;

the invention can be powered by AC current, DC current, or battery;

a power connection on the invention for connection with an outside power source;

a transformer in invention for reduction said outside power source to provide the appropriate current to power or charge the communication device;

a system to terminate charging of the batteries of the communication device when said device is fully charged if the communication device has batteries;

a self contained power source for the invention which can power the invention when it is not connected to an external power source

Inventor: Stolzenhaller, III; Stanford C. (5911 Willow Glen Dr., Baton Rouge, LA 70809)

Assignee: Stolzenhaller, III; Stanford C. (Baton Rouge, LA)

Appl. No: 10692486